TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS LOCAL ITEMS OF INTEREST

Rev. W. R. Ware was here yesterday.

A truck express runs now from Statesville via here and Elkin daily.

Mr. A. J. Proffit, of Maple Springs, is installing water works in his residence.

Mr. Tom Perry, principal of the school at Lilesville, arrived Saturday, to spend a week or so. Mrs. Perry will come next week.

Mrs. Ritchie, of New York state arrived Saturday and was met here by Mr. J. H. Ritchie, of Pores Knob, with whom, her son, she will spend several weeks.

Miss Fay Wiles, of Winston-Salem, is visiting at Mr. C. M. Caudill's this week. Miss Gladys Wiles, who was here last week left Saturday returning home.

Mrs. Texie Gardner, of Shelby, and sister, Miss Allie Noos, of Charlotte, have been visiting at Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hendren's, near Straw, and friends at Ronda this week.

Mr. I. G. Sisk, of Winston, was in N. Wilkesboro last Thursday having come, to spend the day, over from Ashe in which county he and Mrs. Sisk are spending the summer till October.

Ordinarily, the section of the state from which an automobile comes or is owned is determined by number. The numbers issued at the office in N. Wilkesboro range from 175,000 to 250,000, or there-around, we are told.

"Choose from the two best made stoves" says Smoak Brothers, Range Eteral and Allen Princess. They also call your attention to the Hoosier kitchen cabinet, furniture, etc., in their advertisement on page eight. Their line is complete in quality and style, and at prices to suit everybody.

Gilbert Foster, 20-years-old son of Mr. A. G. Foster, of Congo, gained the fortune last Saturday at a land estate sale near the edge of Winston-Salem, by drawing a new Star automobile and in which he visited his parents the past week-end returning to Winston where he is studying in a business course at night and earning money in day time. He graduated at a Wilkes high school in 1923.

The Alleghany, Sparta Star, says that a jitney line has been started up between Sparta and Elkin, rather it is a truck line, leaving Elkin at 8 A.M. arriving at Sparta 10. Then it returns to Elkin at 1 P. M. making connection with the train and Winston truck express. Points of departure: Hackler's store in Sparta and Mosely & Reese store at Elkin.

In the account of the death of Miss Mamie Barber printed last week the Hustler was in error as to the first name of Rev. Richard Wainwright Barber, deceased, her father. Instead of Rev. "William" Wainwright Barber it is Richard W. Barber. Another error, which came to us through the daily paper's account, is also a mistake and that is as to the late R. W. Barber's father being the first pastor of the Wilkesboro Episcopal church which "for more than a century" etc. Rev. R. W. Barber was the next to the first pastor preceding him. The church building is near about eighty years old not a hundred. The old Methodist building, the Presbyterian and Episcopal each must have been built within ten years of each other.

Twenty Years Lost Each Day.

Manufacturer's Record.

The United States Senate was discussing a provision for an eight-hour day for postoffice employees, when Senator Caraway said: "Why is eight hours so sacred away from Washington and only seven hours here? What is the difference—is it the climate? This is a subject which interests the entire people of the United States yet it never is discussed in congress. In Washington, government employees are supposed (and the word is used advisedly) to work seven hours a day, in contrast with eight hours in the rest of the land.

There are approximately 50,000 government workers in Washington. The one-hour day difference makes 50,000 hours a day, or 6,250 eight-hour days, or twenty years at 300 days in the working year. Twenty years are lost in Washington every day in this discrimination in favor of those local government clerks.

Mayhap the effect of the "climate" is on the Senators is why it is never discussed.

Eastern North Carolina Rained-Out.

Mooreville Enterprise, 17th: Esq. C. V. Voils, R. L. Smith and others who last week departed for White Lake, in Bladen county, to spend a brief season fishing and recuperating, returned home first of the week. Esq. Voils says he had never seen so much water in all his life. Water, water everywhere. Great fields of tobacco, corn and cotton were under water and in some of the cotton fields small canoes were being rowed about. This condition, he said, applied in practically all the lowlands. In the hills and where there was any sort of rolling lands, crops were just a shade better, although one could hardly distinguish the crop from the grass. The party went down by Fayetteville and returned by way of Elizabethtown and Rockingham. From Rockingham this way the crops look better, but father east Mr. Voils says the farmers are up against a drowned crop. White Lake which has neither inlet or outlet, is 18 inches above high-water mark. It rained them out and they returned home where sunshine and shadows are mingled.

Blair, was the past few day elected prident of the Wicassett Mills company, one of the largest cotton mills corporation in the South. The pernicious scattering of rubber tires about both towns and county for some time past seems to have come to an end. Thursday we observed a fine stack of them in front of the Wilkes Shoe Fixery where some of them are being made into the most attractive hand bags for ladies at prices from 75 to $1.50.

DOG DAYS BEGAN JULY 29; MYTH'S EXPLODED

Washington, July 26.—The parental injunction, "Hang your clothes on a hickory limb but do not go near the water" is seasonable once more.

Astronomers at the U. S. naval observatory here announce that dog days traditional time of rabid canines and poisoned pond, will begin July 29.

On that date Sirius, the dog star, rises with the sun for the first time this year. It will continue to rise at dawn until September 1. The star will be visible in the early morning hours.

The naval scientists however assured the public that there is no occasion for alarm at the proximity of the muggy season. The fear of dog days is an ancient bogaboo, born long before old King Tut's Egyptian ascendancy.

Eor, in conflict to the popular belief, the season's name is not attributable to the fact that dogs are prey to rabies at that time. It is named for the bright star Sirius who eternally follows Orion, the Hunter, in his Heavenly chase.

"The ancient Egyptians thought the rising of the dog star was responsible for the torrid heat of the Nile country during the late summer," explained Astronomer Willis.

They attributed the variations of the season to the position of the planets. Accordingly, the late summer was "dog days."

The naval scientists admit that streams do dry up, and pond water stagnate and swimming becomes dangerous in the period now approaching. Dogs become cranky, because they are unable to sweat. Human beings cool off by perspiring, while the only canine means of refrigeration is deep breathing through the open mouths.

Minister Under Bond of $22,500 at Statesville.

Statesville, July 23.—E. E. Schafer, local jeweler, had papers issued this morning against Rev. O. W. Aderholdt, former pastor of St. Johns Lutheran congregation here, starting action for damages in the sum of $30,000 for the alienation of his wife's affections, the plaintiff alleging unlawful relations between the defendant and the plaintiff's wife. Mrs. Schafer was organist of the church of which the defendant was pastor until his unexpected resignation a few weeks ago.

Sheriff M. P. Alexander served the warrant this morning about 10 o'clock on the minister, while he was engaged in conversation with Mrs. Schafer in her home on Bell street. In the preliminary hearing before J. A. Hartness, clerk of superior court of Iredell county, the appearance bond of Mr. Aderholdt was placed at $22,500.

"I emphatically deny the whole thing," said Rev. Mr. Aderholdt to a newspaperman late this afternoon.

Rev. O. W. Aderholdt became pastor of St. Johns Lutheran church here about six years ago. At that time the congregation was small. During the last year of his pastorate the old church was discarded and a handsome new house of worship was erected at a cost of about $45,000, exclusive of the pipe organ, which was the gift of a friend.

Since his resignation about three weeks ago he has been attending a Bible school in New York city. He explains that he came back today to look after some business matters connected with the parsonage and the church.

Happy Valley Yielding an Abundance of Crops.

Legerwood, July 24.—The Happy Valley never looked more lovely than it does right now, with its abundant crops growing and smiling with promises of productive yields, and the greenest of green of the verdure, and the brightest of sunshine. The Patterson school farm has just threshed out the biggest and one of the best crops of wheat it ever made during the history of the institution. It made 701 bushels of good wheat. The school has about 80 acres in corn coming on that gives the heart of the husbandman and Principal Dobbin and the young farmer boys great delight. All other crops are doing fine. The Patterson school farm was never under better productive conditions, or yielding more.

FOREST FIRES IN COUNTY GREATLY REDUCED IN '23

"An indication of the work of the forest wardens," says Central District Forest man, Fred B. Merrill, of Lenoir, "and of the favorable attitude of the people of Wilkes county towards forest fire prevention is brought out in the report recently issued by the N. C. Geological and Economic survey. During the first six months of this year the wardens of the county extinguished 25 forest fires that burned over a total of 1775 acres and caused a damage estimated at $6604. While the area burned was much too large it was small when compared to Burke, Caldwell and McDowell counties where 2543, 7467 acres and 5405 acres respectively.

Six townships, some of them in the most densely wooded parts of the county, went through the spring months without a single fire and the citizens of these townships furnish a splendid example to the other townships of the practicability of care with fire.

"Further advantage of having an organization to handle the fires is that the average fire has been reduced from 133 to 199 acres in 1922 and 1923 to 79 acres the past spring.

With the continued growth of popular sentiment towards forest protection on the part of the people and an even greater effort on the part of the wardens it is believed that the forests of Wilkes county will soon be safe and growing for prosperity and timber for this and the coming generations.
