

NEW YORK, July 16 (AP).—For the second time in a week, the Civil Rights Congress today was outlawed as a bondsman in Federal Court.

Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan gave 14 second-string Communist leaders—bonded by the Congress—until noon Tuesday to raise new bail. They will remain free on the old bond until then.

Defense attorneys said they will appeal his decision. They upset a similar decision on an earlier appeal.

Judge Ryan said the Congress failed to prove its responsibility as a bondsman for the 14, who have been indicted on charges of conspiring to teach and advocate violent revolution.

He also said the Congress, through its bail fund trustees, had “hindered and impeded” the Nation-wide search for four fugitive top-level Communist leaders, missing two weeks ago.

In Washington, Representative Walter (D., Pa.) introduced a bill aimed at the Congress. It would bar any group on the Attorney General’s subversive list from acting as bondsman in Federal court.

The Civil Rights Congress has been listed as Communist and subversive by the Attorney General.

On still another front, the Congress was outlawed as a bondsman by another Federal judge hearing a deportation case involving alleged Communist activity.

Federal udge Alexander Holtzoff acted in the case of Peter Harisiades, 47, Greek newspaperman accused of former membership in the Communist Party.

Judge Holtzoff said he believed “the so-called bail fund of Civil Rights Congress of New York should not be accepted as surety.” He said he doubted “the validity of the surety’s obligation,” since there was no disclosure made in the bail bond of the owners of cash put up in the Harisiades case.

Judge Ryan first outlawed the Civil Rights Congress bail last Wednesday and sent 15 second-string Communists to jail.

Appeals Judge Learned Hand reversed this decision, granting the Reds their freedom. He held that Judge Ryan acted before completing a hearing on the bond matter.

One of the 15 Communists found a new source of bail so that only 14 were affected by Judge Ryan’s latest decision.

Originally, 11 top leaders of the Communist Party in America were convicted of conspiring to advocate violent overthrow of the Government. The Civil Rights Congress put up $260,000 in bail for them.

Seven of these top-drawer Reds surrendered two weeks ago and started prison terms ranging from three to five years. But four failed to appear. They are Robert Thompson, Gus Hall, Gilbert Green and Henry Winston.

Their total of $80,000 in Civil Rights Congress bond was ordered forfeited as a Nation-wide hunt for them was launched by the FBI.

Judge Ryan demanded that he be informed where the Civil Rights Congress got the money for bail. He sentenced three trustees of the bail fund to jail for contempt when they refused to name contributors to the fund.

They are leftist millionaire Frederick Vanderbilt Field, mystery writer Dashiell Hammett and W. Alphaeus Hunton, all now appealing sentences ranging from 90 days to six months.

Defense attorneys for the Communists have argued that the Civil Rights Congress is the only sure source of bail in such cases. Normal bail sources will not bond Communists, they contend.

Reversible Recon Makes Its Bow at Paris Celebration

Just the things for getting out of traffic jams are these “fore and aft” eight-wheel army reconnaissance cars being paraded down the Champs Elysee in Paris’ Bastille Day celebration Saturday. The French-made combat vehicle has drivers in front and back and can move with equal speed in either direction. Center wheels that can be lowered for added traction on rough terrain and a swivel-mounted 75-mm cannon are other features.
