

MEETINGS PLANNED TO HELP RADICALS

Group That Furnished the Bail for Communists Also Will Distribute Leaflets

The Civil Rights Congress, which furnished bail for seven of the Communist leaders arrested by Federal authorities, moved yesterday to plan a new program for the defense of "all labor, liberal and radical and new party organizations."

This was announced by Len Goldsmith, newly appointed national director of the congress, after a meeting called to discuss financial problems involved in the legal defense of the indicted Communists. It was held at 23 West Twenty-sixth Street at the headquarters of the Council on African Affairs.

Mr. Goldsmith said unions represented at the conference included several locals of the Hotel Workers, AFL, and the Furriers, National Maritime Union, Packing House Workers, Electrical Workers, Transport Workers and Furniture Workers, all CIO. Also present were members of organizations representing racial and religious groups.

Mr. Goldsmith said the crisis presented by developments of the last two days would be met in various ways.

A series of street meetings will be held on Tuesday throughout the city to "let the people know about this crisis." Another plan was to distribute 2,000,000 leaflets designed "to educate the public on Tom Clark and President Truman."

The conferees also decided, Mr. Goldsmith reported, to send delegations to visit members of Congress at their homes before the special session of Congress and to protest to the City Council on the arrest of Councilman Benjamin J. Davis.

Mr. Goldsmith said the new strategy of the Civil Rights Congress and its affiliated organizations would be in harmony with that proposed by Edgar G. Brown. He had suggested that the delegates to the third-party convention in Philadelphia move on to Washington for the opening of the special session.

Mr. Goldsmith reported that his organization planned to send a delegation to Washington by one or more special trains, and that an application had been made to the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Present at yesterday's conference was Miss Claudia Jones, against whom deportation proceedings are pending.

Mr. Goldsmith said the program to give "correct information" on invasions of civil rights would have the support of City Councilman Eugene Connolly, Charles Collins, Arthur Schutzer, Joseph Selley, Raymond Ingersoll, Tony Salese and at least ten other top "liberal" and union leaders.
